

TimeMessenger

Utilities

This is an Android application that allows users to send messages to other persons with a defined timeframe for expiry. The message gets automatically deleted when it surpasses that specified time period with display of a deletion phrase. It also includes services like registration, message sending, application sharing and more. It also offers social media integration features with Twitter, FaceBook etc.

Application screenshots

